Accessibility Statement for Reddit

This is an accessibility statement from Reddit.

Measures to support accessibility

Reddit takes the following measures to ensure accessibility of Reddit:

- Include accessibility as part of our mission statement.
- Assign clear accessibility goals and responsibilities.

Conformance status

The Web Content Accessibility Guidelines (WCAG) defines requirements for designers and developers to improve accessibility for people with disabilities. It defines three levels of conformance: Level A, Level AA, and Level AAA. Reddit is partially conformant with WCAG 2.2 level AA. Partially conformant means that some parts of the content do not fully conform to the accessibility standard.

Limitations and alternatives

Despite our best efforts to ensure accessibility of Reddit , there may be some limitations. Below is a description of known limitations, and potential solutions. Please contact us if you observe an issue not listed below.

Known limitations for Reddit:

1. Posts with images: Screen reader users might encounter images with incorrect alt-text because Reddit automatically sets alt text descriptions for images to equal the title of the post. Reddit is continually improving accessibility across our platform, and we know that accessibility is an ongoing journey. If you experience any barriers or have suggestions on how we can make Reddit more accessible, please reach out to us via email at accessibility@reddit.com.
2. Posts with comments: Confusing focus order when interacting with spoilers and comment threads. Reddit does not provide appropriate ARIA for spoilers and does not have accessible focus order for comment threads that are compatible with NVDA. Reddit is continually improving accessibility across our platform, and we know that accessibility is an ongoing journey. If you experience any barriers or have suggestions on how we can make Reddit more accessible, please reach out to us via email at accessibility@reddit.com.

3. Video content in posts: There are no audio descriptions provided for important info in videos. Also, some button elements in the videos do not have a full name, role, or current state provided. Some elements are missing the appropriate ARIA to make them accessible. Reddit is continually improving accessibility across our platform, and we know that accessibility is an ongoing journey. If you experience any barriers or have suggestions on how we can make Reddit more accessible, please reach out to us via email at accessibility@reddit.com.
4. Links and page titles: Screen reader users might encounter unclear link descriptions or page titles that do not accurately identify the content. Some links and page titles do not provide enough information to communicate their purpose. Reddit is continually improving accessibility across our platform, and we know that accessibility is an ongoing journey. If you experience any barriers or have suggestions on how we can make Reddit more accessible, please reach out to us via email at accessibility@reddit.com.
5. Form fields: Some forms provide unclear required-field instructions, missing field names, and error messages that do not explain how to correct mistakes. Additionally, some form selections cause the page to reload and move focus unexpectedly. Important security messages might also appear visually without being announced to the screen reader user. Some form elements and messages may not provide the appropriate labels, requirements, errors, or announcements needed by assistive technologies due to missing accessible components in code. Reddit is continually improving accessibility across our platform, and we know that accessibility is an ongoing journey. If you experience any barriers or have suggestions on how we can make Reddit more accessible, please reach out to us via email at accessibility@reddit.com.
